

Snowman

You Will Need

- 1 5" White Round
- 1 10" White Round
- 1 360 Scrap for hat
- 1 260 Scrap for hat
- 1 Orange scrap
- 1 360 White for base
- 1 160 or 260 for scarf

Insert two knotted scraps into a 5" round balloon.

Inflate a 350 scrap to approximately 4".

To make the top of the hat, make an apple twist by pushing the knot into the balloon and catching hold of it from the outside as shown.

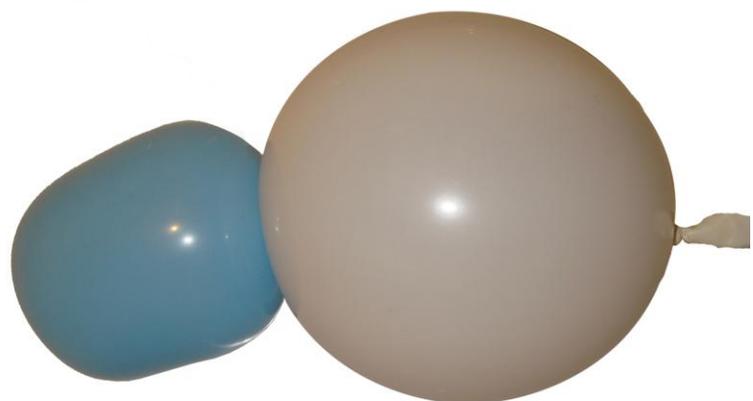

Tie the knot into place. It should look like this.

Inflate the 5" round balloon keeping it soft. Tie the balloon a little way from the lip. At the nipple end catch hold of one of the scraps inside the balloon. This is called a raisin.

Tie the apple twisted balloon onto the raisin.

Tie a loop of 260 balloon around the apple to form the rim of the hat.

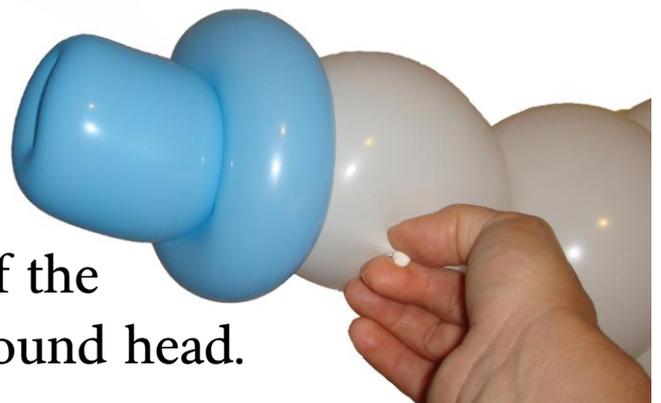

Inflate a 10" or 11" round balloon keeping it a little soft. Push the air up to the lip end and push the lip of the 5" head bubble into the lip of the 10" round.

Push the lip knot all the way down to the opposite end of the 10" round balloon and catch hold of it through the outside of the balloon to form a marriage twist. (A marriage twist is an apple twist that joins two parts together. In this case the head and the body. Tie the knot into place Inflate an orange scrap to the desired size of the nose. The tip of the orange is best to avoid unsightly knots at the end of the nose. Catch hold of the remaining knot inside the 5" round head.

Attach the nose to the raisin twist.

Inflate a 160 balloon and wrap it around the base of the head to form a scarf.

Make a pinch twist at the front and remove the remaining balloon at the length required for the scarf.

Inflate a 360 balloon and wrap it around the base of the snowman's body.

Draw some eyes, a mouth and buttons to complete your snowman.

Here are some slightly different snowmen using an extra round balloon.

An alternative way to make the carrot nose is to push the raisin of the head inside the base of the orange balloon and make a marriage twist at that point. This is quite difficult though using just the raisin so it might be easier to tie a little scrap of balloon to the raisin and push that into the orange nose. The advantage of this is it makes a tidier join but the disadvantage is that it takes longer to make the snowman..
